

Having experienced substandard service from more than one huge ISP & good service from small providers, the prospect of your suspending regulatory review of pricing to the small ISP's is very disturbing. This would not be a public service.